Thanks God, we live in a Capitalist Country: that requires us to care for our own families, employees and pay the bills, so we naturally have to make some money. Therefore, all the companies we feature, advertise, promote and discuss pay us for our services, in cash or in company stock and/or warrants, you will find compensation disclosure at the bottom of the featured company's profile and/or in our reports/emails etc. The conflict of interest is obvious and naturally we are biased in our views, so we strongly suggest you take it with perhaps lot more than just a grain of salt. And, We strongly advise you seek professional advice, contact your financial advisor/broker, your brother-in-law and the barber. Do your own research and due diligence before investing any money.
